Broad Street Pedestrian Environment Improvements

As you are aware, Nottingham City Council is well underway making improvements to the Broad Street area. Following liaison with businesses it has been decided that we will suspend the construction works on the southern end of Broad Street (between Old Lenton Street and Carlton Street) over the summer months so that everyone can enjoy the outside area without disruption. This will mean that the footway on the eastern side of Broad Street (between Brew Dog and Kayal) and the carriageway, will remain unfinished but in a safe state. Seasonal pavement cafés with a licence can open and the current road closure will be taken off on 15th July 2013.

Construction works will be moved to the northern end of Broad Street (between Lower Parliament Street and Old Lenton Street), Old Lenton Street and the junction of Broad Street/Old Lenton Street/High Cross Street. Further information will be sent out as these works progress.

It is envisaged that works will recommence on the southern end of Broad Street in September 2013.

If you would like to know more about the construction works taking place please call the Engineer, Ben Biddulph on: (0115) 8765409.
