Local List Proposal

Description

The William Woodsend Memorial Homes were erected in 1912–13 on Derby Road. Built in a Neo-Jacobean style from brick with sandstone details. The three sons of William Woodsend, Thomas, (of Liverpool) James William, (of Nottingham) and George Arthur (of Tun-bridge Wells) with a "desire to perpetuate the memory of their good father, who by his patient perseverance, and in his daily life, showed them an excellent example," built a set of six almshouses of a superior type of domestic convenience

William Woodsend Memorial Homes

Local Heritage Asset Register

Lenton & Wollaton East HA914

Additional Description:

They were built as six almshouses in memory of local builder William Woodsend by his sons, Jack and Arthur. These almshouses have several conditions of tenancy including preference to be given to persons who, through no fault of their own, have become reduced in circumstances. Or, to women previously employed as governesses, nurses or school mistresses who have not been able to make provision for their old age.
