Assessment against Local Criteria

1. Historic association: the only surviving fabric of Rock House
2. Aesthetic value: an interesting and eye-catching feature along Bagnall Road

Reason for Designation

Rock House was an important residence in Basford, being one of the largest houses alongside Basford Hall and Basford House. Prominent bleacher Charles Cox lived there after selling Vernon House to Nottingham Corporation. The boundary wall is the only surviving fabric of Rock House and now stands as a feature on Bagnall Road. The architectural features blocked in the wall are reminiscent of those of Rock House (pictured right).

Local List Proposal

Description

Stone wall with blocked pointed arch window and doorways. Boundary to the former Rock House, now demolished. The wall is all that remains of Rock House - the wall to Bagnall Lane has blocked gateways
