Local List Proposal

Description

The Birkin Family's principal mill in Nottingham. Also known as Papyrus works and Palmerston House. Majority built before the First Edition OS Map and also depicted in a birds eye view during the King George V's visit to Birkin and Company in June 1914. Unclear whether the Birkin Family of Lace Makers built the factory or whether they took over the factory as part of the extension to their main works on Stanley Road (HA618). It was once one works with the factory to the east (HA619). Includes the historic buildings within the yard of the factory.
